

Workplace Grief

When death and loss touch your work environment, it can have a profound effect on your team's physical, mental and emotional wellbeing. Navigating how to support your staff at work, while honoring the person who died and meeting workforce needs can be challenging. OhioHealth Loss and Healing Services offers consultation and grief support in your workplace to assist those impacted by the loss.

We welcome the opportunity to provide guidance and on-site support to your team, with education about normal grief responses and intentional space for sharing emotions and remembering. We will also collectively explore ways to cope with the loss in meaningful ways.

Our team will shape our time with you to meet the specific needs of your employees, and provide grief handouts and resources for continued support. We will remain involved with you for as long as may be helpful, through ongoing guidance, education and individual/group support.

Please reach out to us to learn more about fees related to supporting your team through loss and change. We look forward to being with you.
